Invoice for a shipment

For customs in any country outside the European Union, for transportation of goods, it is necessary to attach an invoice with a description of the contents of the shipment and its value. For transport of goods within the European Union this is not necessary.

When should an invoice be attached to a shipment?

- If the shipment consists of documents only, then no invoice is required.
- If the destination is in the list below, then no invoice is required.
- If the shipment consists of goods and the destination is not in the list below, an invoice is required.
